Dear Speaker Johnson, Democratic Minority Leader Jeffries, Majority Leader Thune, Democratic Minority Leader Schumer, Chairwoman Collins, Vice Chair Murray, Chairman Hoeven, Ranking Member Shaheen, Chairman Cole, Ranking Member DeLauro, Chairman Harris, Ranking Member Bishop:

We, the 343 undersigned national, state, and community-based organizations, urge you to protect and strengthen nutrition and health services for infants, young children, and pregnant and postpartum women by: funding the Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants, and Children (WIC) at a level that will ensure everyone eligible who applies can receive the full benefits and services of the program in fiscal year 2027 (FY 27); and making the flexible service options currently in place permanent. WIC is a bedrock of our nation's health, and for more than 30 years, Congress has maintained a bipartisan commitment to fully fund the program.

WIC provides nearly 7 million pregnant, postpartum, and breastfeeding women, infants, and children up to age 5 in households with low income and found to be at nutrition risk with nutrition education, breastfeeding support, health care referrals, and access to vitally needed nutritious foods during the most essential periods for healthy development.

The proposed FY 27 Agriculture Appropriations bill recently reported out of the House Appropriations Committee would underfund WIC, slashing essential benefits WIC families use at the grocery store, corner store, or farmers' market, and make WIC less accessible. The legislation would also cut WIC's fruit and vegetable benefit and fails to make flexible service options — which modernize WIC by allowing WIC agencies and clinics to offer phone or video appointments — permanent.

Poor nutrition has detrimental impacts on infant, child, and maternal health and well-being. WIC is a proven strategy to improve health outcomes and spur local economic activity, but it can only be effective if people can access the program and have the full range of evidence-based benefits, including the fruits and vegetable benefit. WIC allows families to access the nutritionally tailored food they need to grow and thrive.

For more than 50 years, WIC has been improving the health of mothers and babies, and in recent decades has been modernizing to meet opportunities and challenges. The current flexible service options that allow WIC families to utilize phone and video conferencing to complete certain WIC appointments have created efficiencies for families and WIC agencies. These options are especially helpful for families in rural areas where transportation can be a challenge, and for working parents who have to balance work and appointment schedules. Without Congressional action these flexible service options could end as early as September 2026, representing a step backwards for WIC clinics and participants.

By supporting full funding for WIC benefits and services, Congress will continue its 30-year bipartisan commitment to supporting the program. Any funding below that amount is detrimental and will harm the nutrition and health outcomes of mothers, babies, and young children across our nation.

We urge you to continue Congress' long-standing bipartisan support for WIC by fully funding the program and services, maintaining the current value of the fruit and vegetable benefit, and ensuring current flexible service options continue.
